A $350,000 gift from the Daisy E. and Paul H. Brown Charitable Trust helped make the Webb-Brown Academic Center on the college's Arkansas City campus a reality. The building was formally dedicated Sept. 1.

“Paul and Daisy were committed to lifelong learning,” said son Max Brown, who spoke during the dedication. “To them, there was no saturation point in education.”

Several family members were among the estimated crowd of 100 people in attendance. Dr. Pat McAtee, Cowley president, was grateful to the family for the generous donation, and to members of the college staff for helping make the building a reality.

Esther Giffin, the Brown’s daughter, said her parents loved Arkansas City. “And they would want every student who studies here to love education,” Giffin said. “Congratulations on having the best college that exists.”

The $350,000 gift, the largest single gift in the history of the college, was the impetus for a capital campaign that raised approximately $150,000 in additional funds for the $3.1 million facility, located on the southeast corner of Third Street and Washington Avenue. The building, which had been in the planning stages since 2002, has two levels. On the ground floor are two computer labs, one large classroom, a faculty training room, and offices for faculty in the Business, Computer and Information Technology Department. The department moved from the Kerr Technology Building this summer. On the second floor there are five classrooms, the Institute of Lifetime Learning, and a conference room.

Inside the main foyer is a sculpture by Arkansas City artist Gary Kahle titled Waterfalls.

Terri Morrow, Cowley’s dean of development and college relations, directed fund-raising efforts for the building. “We are thrilled about this very significant gift from the Daisy and Paul Brown Trust,” Morrow said. “Dr. McAtee and I have greatly enjoyed working with Esther and Don (Giffin) and their daughter Sally (Murguia), and Max and Mary (Brown). They have directed funds from the Trust to several wonderful projects in Ark City. Literally thousands of people will enjoy the benefits of this new building and the improvements to our parks.”

Paul died in 1994 at age 94, while Daisy died in 1997, also at age 94.

Daisy was 22 when she finished high school. She graduated from Arkansas City Junior College in 1949 at age 46. Two years later, she earned a degree from Southwestern College. She was a career teacher, having taught in one-room country schoolhouses, and later in schools in Arkansas City and Wichita.

Daisy and Paul met when he was working in Arkansas City as a mechanic for the Ford dealership. Paul’s education was gained mainly through on-the-job training. He was a self-taught person who loved learning. Esther Giffin said her father never attended college. In fact, he probably never made it past the eighth grade, she said.

In 1983, the Browns moved from Ark City to Prairie Village to be closer to their children and grandchildren.

Besides Murguia, the Giffin’s other children are a daughter, Emily Boeshaar, and two sons, Taylor and Spencer Atha. Spencer lives in Wichita. Max E. Brown and his wife, Mary, have two daughters, Rachel Galarnik and Esther Besecky.
The Vienna Choir Boys, one of the oldest boys' choirs in the world, is the featured entertainment Nov. 1 following the Cowley College Endowment Association's annual banquet.

The choir will perform at 8 p.m. in the Robert Brown Theatre inside the Brown Center on Cowley’s Arkansas City campus. Tickets are $15 for adults, $10 for senior citizens, and $5 for students K-12. They may be purchased at the Sid Regnier Bookstore, 207 W. Fifth Ave., or charge by phone by calling (620) 441-5277.

For nearly five hundred years, the Vienna Boys' Choir has been a symbol of Austria. A founding document of Maximilian I in 1498 called the first dozen boys to the imperial court as members of the newly formed court music band. Since then the Vienna Boys' Choir has been a fixed attraction in Austrian musical life.

The choir's repertoire includes everything from medieval to contemporary and experimental music. In the 1970s, the choir started to perform Heinz Kratochwill's a cappella arrangements of Beatles' songs. In 2002, they recorded their first ever pop album; featuring songs by Madonna, Celine Dion and Robbie Williams. The choir has contributed to a number of soundtracks in recent years, including Primal Fear (USA 1996) and The 13th Floor (USA 1999).
New material and collaborations with veteran musicians highlight the Winfield Regional Symphony’s 2005-2006 season.

Titled “Music and Magic,” the WRS has four performances scheduled featuring new music premieres and guest artists.

On Oct. 25, the WRS is scheduled to perform at the Wichita Art Museum for the third time in as many years. The “Grouse Creek Symphony,” a multi-media work featuring the paintings of Cowley art instructor Mark Flickinger, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Premiered in May in Arkansas City, a new movement will be added to the work for the Oct. 25 performance.

Dec. 2 will mark the return of John McCutcheon with the WRS. McCutcheon, a Walnut Valley Festival favorite, has performed several times with the symphony in the late 1990s, including two performances at the festival. The concert begins at 7:30 p.m.

A new work titled “The Mask Symphony” will be premiered at the National Music Club Convention at 7:30 p.m. April 21, 2006, and will feature the masked characters of Rob Faust, who performed several times with the WRS during past PrairieFest concerts.

On May 15, 2006, the Prairie Rose Wranglers will make their symphonic debut at 7:30 p.m. This popular trio has performed in Carnegie Hall and is planning upcoming trips to China. Their Prairie Rose dinner theatre is one of Kansas’ most popular tourist destinations.

Other than the Wichita Art Museum performance, all concerts will be in the Robert Brown Theatre inside the Brown Center at Cowley College.

Gary Gackstatter, director of instrumental music at Cowley, is conductor of the Winfield Regional Symphony.
Charles Dickens’ touching tale of an orphan boy who runs away and tries to pick a pocket or two, only to get caught, will appear on Cowley’s Robert Brown Theatre stage at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 20-22. A dinner will be served at 6:15 p.m. Oct. 21-22 in the Wright Community Room inside the Brown Center.

Tickets, which go on sale Sept. 26, may be purchased from the Cowley Box Office for $7 (show only) or $15 (dinner and show). The Cowley Box Office will be open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. The phone number is (620) 441-5570.

The musical will involve the Arkansas City Middle School Choir, which has more than 40 members, plus 10 “principle” middle-schoolers who will appear throughout the show. MacLaughlin said he was pleased to involve more community members in the production.

“I thought it would be great to invite the middle school choir to be involved in one of our productions,” MacLaughlin said. “This gives kids a wonderful experience and introduces them to theatre and a live performance. This seemed like a great way to bring the community together. It also will expose Cowley theatre to people who have never been to a show.”

“It’s a great message,” MacLaughlin said. “The overall theme to the show is to do what’s right. There is a lot of drama and suspense, a lot of comedic material, and great music.”

Oliver, played by John Rohr, a student at ACMS, is befriended by the pickpocketing Artful Dodger, played by Jaden Hedge of Topeka, and is recruited into the gang of boy thieves led by Fagin, played by Jared McGuire of Arkansas City. The villainous Bill Sykes, played by Kyle Chamberland of Sedan, casts his long shadow over Oliver and his friends, but the young orphan is still able to find loving care in the most desperate of circumstances.
new partnerships, ribbon cuttings, and open houses

The college made new partnerships official on Aug. 8 with ceremonial ribbon cuttings and open houses at three of its outreach centers.

First stop: Winfield

The first stop was at the Winfield Center in Baden Square as Cowley joined forces with Pratt Community College on a Registered Nurse - Licensed Practical Nurse program. In expanding its nursing program, Pratt also opened the door for students to take general education classes from Cowley. Pratt has 40 nursing students on its main campus. There will be 20 students in Winfield.

The main floor of the Winfield Center, also known as Stephenson Hall on the former St. John’s College campus, was renovated during the last several months. The renovation included new classroom space, office space, and a room for students to do some training.

Dr. William Wojciechowski, president of PCC, said he was pleased with the new partnership. “This is a great concept, and we appreciate the efforts of the Cowley folks to make this place go,” he said.

Slade Griffiths, chair of Cowley’s Allied Health Education Department and a long-time instructor in the Mobile Intensive Care Technician program, said he was excited about the new venture. “There was a definite need in this area for this program,” Griffiths said. “The demand for nurses also remains very high.” The Kansas Job Outlook for 2005 listed nursing as the No. 1 occupation in demand in the state of Kansas.

Second stop: Mulvane Bloomenshine

Nearly 100 people were on hand for Cowley’s dedication and open house at its new location in Mulvane. Bloomenshine, a former elementary school last used for that purpose in 1988, was renovated with funds secured when voters passed a bond issue by Unified School District 263 Mulvane. Renovation began in July 2004.

“We are delighted to be able to do this for Cowley College,” said Dr. Donna Augustine Shaw, USD 263 superintendent. “The college has played a major role in education in Mulvane for many years. This new center will hopefully solidify that existence.”

Bloomenshine is located at 430 E. Main St., just blocks east of downtown, where Cowley occupied several storefronts since opening a center in Mulvane in 1987. The new center includes several classrooms, a science lab, a computer lab, and an Interactive Distance Learning classroom. There also are offices, a faculty workroom and a student lounge.

Third stop: Mulvane Business Park

The final stop was in the Marinus Heersche Business Park, the new home of Cowley’s Industrial Technology Center. Larry and Mary Wolfe, who operate Wolfe Machine, Inc., just south of the new building, had the new center built for the college. Automotive technology and machine tool technology will be taught in the new facility. Welding technology will continue to be taught in the existing building on the northwest side of the business park.

“This will be good for students in and around Mulvane,” Larry Wolfe said. “We had the ground and just got together with the college on this project. There’s a definite need for more technical programs in this area.”
Having led the Cowley men's tennis team to two national championships and 16 top-10 national tournament finishes in 18 years, Larry Grose retired effective Sept. 1. A retirement party was held Sept. 8 in his honor.

“Cowley is my home, so it’s tough to leave,” Grose said. “Everybody has been wonderful to me. Dr. Pat (McAtee, Cowley College President) and I have traveled this road together, and Tom (Saia, Tiger Athletic Director) and I have become good friends. This has been a wonderful experience.

After graduating from Arkansas City High School in 1961, Grose played tennis at Wichita State University Oklahoma State University. He graduated from OSU in 1966.

Grose then spent 11 years running Grose’s IGA alongside his mother, Oralee. He then left the family business and spent the next 11 years working for Givens Fur Company, then two years at Kelly-Gray Menswear before he was hired at Cowley in January 1988.

The team Grose inherited took last in Region VI in his first year as coach. However, the next season resulted in the first of Grose’s two national championships. After working magic in just his second year as coach of the Tigers, Grose led Cowley to its second national championship in 1991. With Grose at the helm, Cowley never finished worse than 10th during its 16 trips to the national tournament.

“Everything he has accomplished as a tennis coach here speaks for itself,” Saia said. “He was not only a great coach, but also a great person. He will be tough to replace because he is a special person to all of us. For the athletic department there is only going to be one coach Larry.”

J.C. Louderback, who was the head tennis coach at Arkansas City High School for 30 years, coached Grose in high school and has remained close friends with him and his family for more than 40 years. Ironically, Louderback’s son Brad has taken over the Cowley tennis programs.

Louderback, who Grose considers as his mentor, is sad to see the long time Tiger tennis coach retire. “He has done a tremendous job building the Cowley County program,” Louderback said. “He has developed some great tennis players, and some great individuals.”

Grose coached 32 All-Americans during his 18 years, and captured nine Region VI titles. Only twice in his 18 seasons did the Tigers fail to qualify for the national tournament, and even then they still had individual representation.

Grose had a special way of getting the most out of his players. “I think with my personality traits and the style that I use I found a way to attract people to the program,” Grose said. “I was able to bring in good talent and then when I got them here it seemed like I had a way of keeping them happy and they enjoyed their experience at Cowley. Our teams competed hard, but as they did that it was fun.”

Grose will be remembered not only for his success in building the Tiger tennis program into one of the top junior college tennis programs in the country, but also for his easy going, gregarious spirit.

“There is nothing better an old tennis bum could do than be a tennis coach and get paid for it,” Grose said. “I want to thank the community and my friends at the college for their support. It has been a real trip.”
Michelle Schoon, Natural Science Department chair and life sciences instructor, became the fourth recipient of the Paul Stirnaman Memorial Award for Teaching Excellence.

Schoon received the award from last year’s winner, Chris Vollweider, during Cowley’s All-College Convocation Aug. 17 in the Robert Brown Theatre.

“This is a great honor to receive from your peers,” said Schoon, who joined Cowley in 1990 as a part-time instructor, then became full-time in 1995. “Paul Stirnaman held such high academic standards in the classroom. This award is very special to me.”

The award is named for Paul Stirnaman, a long-time Social Science Department instructor and strong supporter of the College Education Association. He died June 16, 2000, following a lengthy illness. Service to CEA, teaching excellence, and long service to the college are criteria for the award.

Along with her duties as department chair and instructor, Schoon coordinates Cowley’s Academic Quality Improvement Program, which is a Higher Learning Commission Quality Improvement Initiative. She received the Endowed Chair for Teaching Excellence and Student Learning in 2000 and received a Master Teacher Award (now called an Excellence Award) from the National Institute for Staff and Organizational Development in Austin, Texas, in 1996.

Schoon has a master of education degree in curriculum and instruction from Wichita State University, and a bachelor of arts degree in biology education from Bethany College. A native of Beloit, Schoon has been married to Scott Schoon for 23 years. The couple has three children.
new faces lead

Returning home to Arkansas City, Brad Louderback, the former men’s tennis coach at the University of Illinois and women’s coach at Oklahoma State University, has been named as the new men’s and women’s tennis coach at Cowley.

Louderback replaces Larry Grose, who retired after 18 years as coach of the Tiger men’s tennis program. Louderback also will coach Cowley’s women’s program, replacing Rebecca Meyer.

“When you lose the caliber of coach in Coach Larry, it was vital for me to get someone in here who could coach our men and women,” Cowley athletic director Tom Saia said. “We are very fortunate to have Brad come in and lead our tennis programs.”

Louderback, who has spent the past year serving as the director of tennis at the Ponca City Country Club, is looking forward to coaching the Tigers.

Returning sophomores are Scott Olson and Ryan Stittiams. Although Stittiams competed in just one meet before suffering a season-ending injury in 2004, he and Olson will be counted on to provide leadership to the team. Olson placed 59th at last year’s NJCAA national meet with a time of 27:11.

After finishing second in the Jayhawk Conference Eastern Division last season and 12th at the NJCAA National Championships, Phillips has high hopes for this year’s men’s team.

The women’s team also has lots to be excited about, despite a lack of numbers. Cowley has just five runners on this year’s team, so the health of the squad will be a major concern.

However, the Lady Tigers have a strong group of runners that is led by freshman Linet Birir who, like Mombosi, is from Eldama Ravine, Kenya.

Returning sophomore Katie Wagner, who placed 102nd at last year’s NJCAA national meet with a time of 21:47, also has been running well heading into the season. Returning sophomores La-Nation McCray and Leshea Jenkins from Miami, Fla., will round out the squad and give Cowley enough runners to field a team. Both ladies were valuable contributors to last year’s team.

With just two returning runners on both the men’s and women’s squads, the cross-country teams will count on a strong freshman class to lead them during the 2005 season.

Despite the lack of experience running at the college level, Cowley head coach Mark Phillips is excited about the potential of both squads.

The men’s team will be led by freshman Arnold Mombosi from Eldama Ravine, Kenya. “He has the ability to be the top runner in our conference, and if he can stay healthy, he can be one of the top runners in the country,” Phillips said.

Led by returning All-American Fernanda Domingos and several talented newcomers, the Lady Tiger volleyball team expects to have one of its strongest squads in coach Joanna Pryor’s five years at the helm.

Cowley finished last season with a record of 21-17 overall and placed third in the Jayhawk Conference Eastern Division with a record of 7-2. Both of its first-team all-conference performers from last season return in Domingos and Aubrey Sullivan, to go along with a strong recruiting class that includes six Kansas players and three out-of-stateers.

“We have some good leaders back, all they think about is volleyball,” Cowley coach Joanna Pryor said. “I expect big things from them. And as far as Kansas kids go, I think this is probably one of the best recruiting classes we have had. They are big, they’re tall, and in shape. They also have the experience and a good understanding of the game.”

The three out-of-stateers are expected to make an immediate impact on the squad. They are Brittney Gosdin, a 5-11 middle hitter from ThunderRidge High School in Highlands Ranch, Colo., Marina Tosi, a 5-9 setter, and Eliane Domingos, a 6-4 middle hitter. Tosi and Domingos played club volleyball in Brazil, while Gosdin played high level volleyball in Colorado.

Pryor is excited about the 2005 season. “The hardest part of my job will be trying to figure out who plays where and how often do they play,” Pryor said. “We have people that can trade in and out, so hopefully at the end of the season, we will have some energy and physical ability left.”

“We want to take it one step at a time and focus on each match individually,” Pryor said. “But we would like to win conference, focus on our district matches and go to nationals and do well.”

Johnson County and Independence will provide the Lady Tigers’ toughest competition in the conference, while Dodge City, Pratt and Hesston will provide stiff challenges in the district.

The men’s and women’s basketball teams have high hopes for the 2005-06 season as both squads played well a year ago.

The women are coming off their first-ever unbeaten conference mark as they won the Jayhawk Conference Eastern Division with a record of 18-0. The Lady Tigers started the 2004-05 season by winning their first seven games, and after suffering a loss to Seward County in the eighth game, Cowley rattled off a school-record 23 consecutive wins before having its season come to an end with a loss to Barton County in the second round of the Region VI Tournament.

The Lady Tigers finished the season with a record of 30-2 in head coach Todd Clark’s second year as coach. Sophomore guard Megan Schoenfeld, who averaged 9.7 points as a freshman, is Cowley’s top returning scorer from a year ago. Sharee Hurt, a 6-1 forward, also returns to the squad after averaging 4.1 points and 3.3 rebounds per game as a freshman.

Brian Jackson, who spent the past five seasons as an assistant coach for the Tiger men’s basketball team, enters his first season as head coach at the school.

Cowley finished the 2004-05 season with a record of 21-11 overall, and finished third in the Jayhawk East with a record of 12-6. The Tigers advanced to the second round of the Region VI Tournament before losing in overtime to Garden City, 90-85.

The Tigers return a pair of talented sophomores in 6-8 forward Marcus Watts and 6-5 guard Julio Anthony. Watts averaged 11.2 points, 4.7 rebounds and 2.2 assists as a freshman, while Anthony averaged 10.1 points, 2.7 rebounds, and 2.3 assists.
2000s

Brooke (Baird) Denney, Class of 2001, is a graduate teaching assistant in the Mathematics Department at Emporia State University. She has one son, Ethan Denney, age 7.

Laurie (Baukol) Beyer, Class of 2000, is an office manager in Minot, N.D. She and her husband, who is an assistant manager, have a daughter, Emma Jean Beyer, 1.

Marvin Stagg, Class of 2000, is a certified nursing assistant in Duncan, Okla. His wife Toni is a registered nurse.

Centurion Stark was proud of Ark City roots

Audra Maxine (Woolridge) Stark, who helped spearhead an effort to establish Arkansas City Junior College, and who later would be a member of the college’s first graduating class, died June 15, 2005, in La Grange, Ga. She was 100.

Stark, one of 28 students who comprised the first graduating class of ACJC in 1924, received the Outstanding Tiger Alumnus Award in 1994 for her “outstanding leadership and lifetime of service” to the college.

Upon finishing high school in Arkansas City in 1922, she and her friends campaigned door to door to establish Arkansas City Junior College, or what is now known as Cowley College. She was one of 58 students to begin classes on Sept. 11, 1922. In 1974, she was instrumental in establishing the Renn Memorial Library at the college.

Audra is survived by her sons Daniel C. Stark II and Jack Stark.

Donations may be sent to the Daniel and Audra Stark Memorial Scholarship Fund at Cowley College.

in memory

Jim Salomon

Jim Salomon, a long-time supporter of Cowley College, died July 15, 2005, in Arkansas City. He was 58.

He was born Nov. 16, 1946, in Chicago, Ill., the son of Dr. James L. and Ahlene R. (Groves) Salomon. He was reared and educated in Chicago and Wichita. He graduated from Wichita State with a bachelor’s degree in business administration.

Jim moved to Arkansas City in 1978. He was the co-owner and chief executive officer of Gordon-Piatt Energy Group at Strother Field, and presently was a co-owner and CEO of Good Times Productions. Jim was a member of the Super Boosters and the Endowment Board of Directors at Cowley College.

Survivors include his wife Debbie of the home; three daughters, Stephanie R. Newland of Arkansas City, Crysta L. Snow of Wichita; and Lindsay S. Randle of Derby; a step-son, Stefan Read of Arkansas City. Memorials have been established with the American Heart Association and the Cowley College Endowment Fund.

1990s

Gaynell Segebartt, Class of 1998, is a licensed practical nurse in Broken Arrow, Okla. She has two children, Ozzy Skaggs 11, and Shalonda Skaggs 9.

Sarah (Rose) Boothe, Class of 1997, is a homemaker living in Oak Harbor, Wash. Her husband, Jeremy, is an AE2/aviation electricians mate for the United States Navy. The couple has four children: Alexander 7, Nicholas 5, Hunter 3, and Dylan 9 months.

Deedee (Braungardt) Pietzsch, Class of 1995, is the assistant director of the Sun Dancers drill team at Fossil Ridge High School in Keller, Texas. She also teaches BCIS and dance.

Cherie (Crotta) Millirons, Class of 1995, is a physician’s assistant in Bixby, Okla.

Everett Malan

Everett Andrew Malan, 85, died June 17, 2005, in Arkansas City.

Everett was born March 7, 1920, to William and Naomi (Bonous) Malan on the family farm near Wentworth, Mo. He served in World War II with the United States Army Air Corps. After the war, he received his bachelor’s degree in industrial technology from Southwest Missouri State and a master’s degree at the University of Northern Colorado. Everett married Rosalie Gibbons on Aug. 7, 1950. Everett taught at Arkansas City High School and Arkansas City Junior College (Cowley College) for several years. He became one of the driving forces behind the continued development of the industrial technology department at Cowley.

Survivors include his wife Rosalie; a son Stuart A. Malan both of the home.

Paula Elizabeth Corkins

Paula Elizabeth Corkins, Class of 1956, died Aug. 26, 2005, in Texas. She was 69. She was born on April 1, 1936, in Winfield, the daughter of Paul and Eno Craig. She is survived by her children, Craig Dautrich, Lindsay Conley, Paul Howard, Scott Howard.
We are extremely grateful for the generosity of the individuals, corporations, businesses and foundations listed in this report. The following gifts were made between July 1, 2004 and June 30, 2005. The total cash income to the Endowment Association for the fiscal year was $690,519.83. In addition, another $127,278.12 was raised by the Tiger Booster Club. $352,624.23 has been paid to the college toward the improvements to W.S. Scott and construction of the Webb-Brown Academic Center. There are additional pledges remaining of $93,495.61.

Benefits to students and the community include academic scholarships, textbooks and supplies from the Sid Regnier Bookstore, books and resource materials for the Renn Memorial Library, art supplies for the budding artist, opportunities to attend world-class cultural events, enhancements to programs, and many activities for students to become involved in. Your efforts help to make Cowley College one of the top community colleges in the nation! Your support of Cowley students and the Cowley College family is greatly appreciated.
